

Dallas Peck
Outstanding Scientist
Emeritus Award

M. Debbie Carter

For her broad knowledge of coal stratigraphy, which made possible her creation and continued support of the National Coal Resources Data System, a viable and crucial source of information for over 40 years.

A handwritten signature in black ink, which appears to read "William H. Werkheiser". The signature is written in a cursive style and is positioned above a horizontal line.

William H. Werkheiser, Deputy Director, U.S. Geological Survey

Dallas Peck
Outstanding Scientist
Emeritus Award

Roland von Huene

For his advancement of the scientific understanding of the causative mechanisms of destructive tsunamis and his untiring mentorship of other geologists in the study of natural hazards.

A handwritten signature in black ink, which appears to read "William H. Werkheiser". The signature is written in a cursive style and is positioned above a horizontal line.

William H. Werkheiser, Deputy Director, U.S. Geological Survey

Dallas Peck
Outstanding Scientist
Emeritus Award

Allan D. Randall

For his advancement of the scientific understanding of groundwater resources in the northeastern United States, his untiring mentorship of other groundwater geologists, and his outstanding scientific reviews.

A handwritten signature in black ink, which appears to read "William H. Werkheiser". The signature is written in a cursive style and is positioned above a horizontal line.

William H. Werkheiser, Deputy Director, U.S. Geological Survey

Dallas Peck
Outstanding Scientist
Emeritus Award

Robert A. Zielinski

For his advancement of the scientific understanding of United States uranium deposits and their environmental implications.

A handwritten signature in cursive script, which appears to read "William H. Werkheiser". The signature is written in black ink and is positioned above a horizontal line.

William H. Werkheiser, Deputy Director, U.S. Geological Survey