

Coding Telework and Remote Work in Quicktime

The following outlines instructions and guidance on coding telework and remote work in Quicktime using the Telework/Remote Work Indicator (TRI) codes. Accurate coding of time and attendance records enables the Department to better track the usage of these work flexibilities across the Department. Further information on these programs can be found in Personnel Bulletin (PB) 21-07, Telework Program and PB 20-06, Departmental Remote Work Policy. Additional assistance on using or coding hours in Quicktime should be directed to Bureau/Office timekeepers.

Coding Remote Work or Telework Hours in Quicktime

If an employee has not previously recorded telework or remote work hours in Quicktime, it is important that the servicing Human Resources Office (SHRO) first verifies an employee is properly coded as a telework or remote worker in the Federal Personnel and Payroll System (FPPS).

1. Enter the hours worked in the Week 1 and Week 2 sections of the timesheet and then select the Other Hours tab. If using the Payroll function to enter time, select Payroll and follow the instructions below.
2. In the Hours Code, enter the 010 Regular hour code (or other appropriate hours worked code). Important: do not use the TRI field for non-working hours such as leave, holiday, or non-regular time (e.g., credit hours used). The TRI field is only used to capture time spent teleworking or remote working.
3. Click on the day(s) teleworked or remote worked and enter the corresponding number of hours.
4. Tab to the Fav Key and select the appropriate accounting code information (Key, Functional Area, Cost Center, WBS, Work Order). To view available options, use the Look Up feature.
5. Tab to the TRI field and select the appropriate TRI code. To view available options, use the Look Up feature or refer to the TRI chart on page 2.
6. Click Save when finished.
