

70TH ANNUAL INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE
WILDLIFE DISEASE ASSOCIATION
JULY 23-29, 2022 • MADISON, WI • USA

HOLISTIC SOLUTIONS FOR WILDLIFE HEALTH

Conference Host Highlight

The USGS National Wildlife Health Center is a national science center dedicated to wildlife disease detection, control, and prevention in the United States. Our mission is to advance wildlife health science for the benefit of animals, humans, and the environment. Join us in Madison, Wisconsin July 23-29 for the 2022 International Wildlife Disease Association Conference.

Conference Scientific Themes

- Wildlife health and climate change
- Human dimensions and wildlife health
- Systems thinking and approaches to One Health and wildlife health
- Lessons learned from the COVID-19 pandemic
- Zoonosis and wildlife
- Innovations in diagnostics and surveillance
- Management/monitoring/evaluation
- Emerging and legacy contaminants and wildlife health
- American Association of Wildlife Veterinarians special session on the use of immunotherapeutics in wildlife

Learn more at:

<http://conferences.union.wisc.edu/wda2022/home/about-the-conference/>

